Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 4-7,9-21,26-29 and 31-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In all of these claims, it is unclear if the parts of the endoscope, e.g. endoscope, channel, forceps cap, are being positively recited as elements of the claimed system.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 45-47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stinson-2003/0083730 in view of Del Toro-5733267 and Akui, et al.-4653477.

Stinson discloses in general a method of implanting a stent by placing two concentric cylindrical members inside a channel in an endoscope, withdrawing an outer member relative to an inner member holding the stent therearound, and allowing the stent to self-expand in the vessel lumen. However, the holding mechanism and the use of an outer cylindrical member. Del Toro discloses that it was known to provide an inner cylindrical member holding a stent therearound, an intermediate cylinder covering the stent and an outer cylinder fixed to the inner cylinder; withdrawal of the intermediate cylinder allows for the expansion of the stent. It would have been obvious to have provided an outer cylinder over cylinder 40 of Stinson, as this would prevent the frictional withdrawal of the cylinder 40 when entering and traversing the endoscope lumen\, as the forces would act on the outer cylinder. Akui discloses that it was known to provide a sealing cap on an endoscope tool channel. It would have been obvious to provide the disclosed endoscope with a sealing cap on the tool channel, in order to allow the channel to seal when either empty, or when a tool is inserted therein.

Art Unit: 3731

Once the sealing cap is provided on the endoscope tool channel, this becomes the claimed holding mechanism, as the friction produced by the sealing cap upon the outer cylinder would act to hold the outer cylinder and the inner cylinder in position relative to the endoscope tool channel.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-3,8,22-25,30,43 and 44 are allowed.
